
'The Time To Act Is Now,' Says Yellowing Climate Change Report Sitting In University Archive

NEWS IN BRIEF

April 1, 2016

VOL 52 ISSUE 12

Environment · Science & Technology · Science

BERKELEY, CA—Warning society that it has reached a crucial tipping point from which it may never be able to recover, a brittle, yellowing report sitting in the archives of the University of California’s Bioscience & Natural Resources Library reportedly urged readers Friday that “the time to act against climate change is right now.” “Any further delay in ending the international community’s reliance on fossil fuels and reversing global carbon emission trends places the planet on an irreversible path toward climate catastrophe,” read the faded text of the document, whose musty, degrading pages further cautioned that, without “an immediate and concerted worldwide response,” polar ice caps will facing humanity today. We must act against rising global temperatures with exceptional speed and commitment, as the future of the human race depends on swift and decisive action.” The report, which was beginning to wither and curl at the edges, concluded with a degree of optimism, emphasizing that as long as humanity recognizes the grave dangers it faces and commits itself fully to taking immediate corrective measures, there remains just enough time to avoid a cataclysmic mass extinction event.

SHARE THIS STORY:

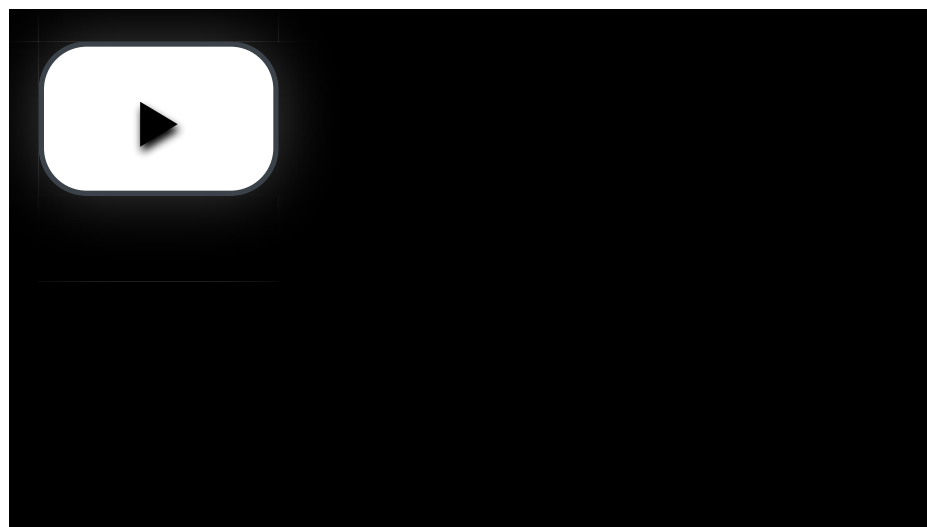

Who's Fucking: Isaac and Doris

VIDEO: WHO'S FUCKING?

June 18, 2014

VOL 50 ISSUE 24

Sex · Relationships ·
Couples · Video · Lifestyle

Isaac and Doris first met 55 years ago and they've fucked each and every day since.

Study: Arachnophobia Causes Spiders To Look Bigger

AMERICAN VOICES

April 1, 2016

VOL 52 ISSUE 12

Opinion

It's been found that the brains of those who suffer from arachnophobia could be perceiving the spiders as much larger than they actually are. What do you think?

“I’d take one big spider over the hundreds of little guys living in my bathtub any day.”

Brennan Goodrich • MENU EDITOR

“Are you saying I could have been killing them with The Old Man And The Sea instead of Infinite Jest this whole time?”

Kylie Straub • UNEMPLOYED

“I’ll perceive bugs however the hell I want.”

Russell Cohn • TILE COLORIST

'The Time To Ac

SEARCH

TOP HEADLINES