Hadden, Jennifer “Explaining Variation in Transnational Climate Change Activism: The Role of Inter-Movement Spillover.” Global Environmental Politics. 2014. 14 (2): 7–25

1.1 Institutionalization and radicalization in climate activism

1.1.1 Networks

1.1.2 Issue emergence

1.1.3 Framing

1.1.4 Political process theory

1.1.5 Resource mobilization

1.2 Contentious politics

Diani, Mario The Cement of Civil Society: Studying Networks in Localities. Cambridge University Press. 2015

Tilly, Charles From Mobilization to Revolution. Addison-Wesley. 1978

Tilley, Charles and Sidney Tarrow Contentious Politics. Oxford University Press. 2015.

1.3 Climate change activism

350.org strategy documents:

- How to Create Momentum
- Spectrum of Allies
- How campaigns are really created

1.4 Youth activism

1.5 Technology and collaboration in activism

Online collaborative tools and platforms have been central to the functioning of CFFD campaigns: from social media platforms like Facebook and Twitter as means of awareness-raising, person-to-person communication, and event promotion to Google Docs and NationBuilder as powerful tools for collaboration among activists and organizers and outreach to those they seek to influence.

Benkler, Yochai “Sharing Nicely: On Shareable Goods and the Emergence of Sharing as a Modality of Economic Production”

Shirky, Clay “Gin, Television, and Social Surplus” (The social/cognitive surplus concept connects to how activism requires privilege, at least in terms of spare time. This can lead to accusations of hypocrisy when activists position themselves as champions of the poor and politically disenfranchised.)

2 Methodology

2.1 Case selection

Collier, David and James Mahoney “Insights and Pitfalls: Selection Bias in Qualitative Research” World Politics 49: 74. (October 1996)

2.2 Interview methods

Hestres, Luis E. “Preaching to the choir: Internet-mediated advocacy, issue public mobilization, and climate change”. New Media and Society. 2014. (“based on interviews with key staff members of two climate change advocacy campaigns”)

2.3 Process tracing
